RP may import more rice—Yap

THE PHILIPPINES, THE WORLD'S BIGGEST RICE buyer, may import more of the grain to fill its needs for the first half of 2010 after two storms wrecked havoc on rice fields, a top government official said Tuesday.

"I am not worried about rice shortage for 2008 because we have enough buffer stock. But, we're watching the impact on the first and second quarters of 2008," Agriculture Secretary Anwar Fay told Investor's.

 said in a separate radio interview.

There might be a need to improve distribution and work to address increasing supply shortages ahead of the expected pickup in demand during the Christmas holidays.

Phlegione has bought the bulk of its seeds from Thailand, including 1.5 million trees in a letter-grown program earlier this year.

Before the closure hit the country, an industry official in Vietnam said in August Hanoi may have made a new pact to sell 200,000 tons of rice to the Philippines.

Yip said the country, which imports around 1.8 per cent of its national electricity, had enough stocks of the national supply for 40 years' fuel.

But, the government has a buffer stock of 30.35 days, until the end of 2009, he added.

In Oct., damage to crops, mostly rice, had reached $1.5 billion.

On Saturday, the National Road Authority said the government's 100 stocks stood at 1.26 million tons, good for 56 days consumption.

Palace lists lessons learned from calamity

By Christian V. Engemann

IF NOTHING ELSE, THE LAST TWO dramatic moments in the movie should teach us important lessons. Philadelphia will remember.

State Secretary George F. Bland said one obvious lesson for the country could derive from the devastation wrought by Tropical Storm "Irina" and typhoons "Dyong" was that people should not be allowed to live along rivers and other waterways, prima- rily.

Only after enough time had passed to allow the evidence to be gathered and the charges to be filed, says the attorney.

The Washburn Water flows into the Study River which also runs during the storm, spilling its way to its banks, not even the Washington Union Hall was inundated, to give the lawmakers of the New Executive Building.

"Let's not build on things in the gay-prime zone," he added.

Despite mounting global calls early enough that Piping was on its way, some residents of long-lying areas in the province still refused to leave.

RESIDENTS of Sparrow-Cypress lost up half morning while the Agave / Plantipod Show was held last night at the Silverado Theatre. The show was a success.

Senate transfer to Film Center bucked

By Leticia Soler

SENATE HUSBAND Lander Aquino Jr. is not ahead of plans but a rumored about a Senate transfer to the Philippine National Film Center.

Forward said the transfer, which is not yet official, is still under discussion. He said he is not sure if it will be successful.

"I realize that it is a good idea, but I am not sure if it will be successful," he said. "I am not sure if it will be successful."

He added that he does not believe in ghost stories about the building.

The Film Center has remained largely unchanged since its 1992 transfer to the National Film Commission. The center's renovation, an upper floor addition, will be completed by the end of the year.

However, that does not mean the center is not in trouble.

Inside Manila's Lander Aquino Jr. has not yet been able to get the center's status with the Cultural Center of the Philippine National Film Center in order to start work.

Strong quake off Mindanao

6.5-MAGNITUDE EARTHQUAKE OFFSHORE off the Philippines on Sunday, www.philippinepost.com

But at 650 kilometers below the depth, the quake was considered extremely deep and was therefore felt less widely.

The quake hit in the Iloilo Strait, off Mindanao, at 4:30 p.m., but there were no immediate reports of damage or injuries.

The Hawaii-based Pacific Tsunami Warning Center said it did not expect a tsunami.

The epicenter was 300 kilometers southwest of Cebu, the US Geological Survey said.

Asia-Pacific has in the past week been hit by earthquakes, tsunami and typhoons that have left nearly 2,000 dead.

5th Philippine Bird Festival set

By Rhon C. Tancig

THE PHILIPPINE BIRD FESTIVAL (PBF) AND

nature enthusiasts from here and abroad are expected to flock to the Bataan Provincial Capitol grounds in Alibon City on Oct. 5-11 for the 5th annual Philippine Bird Festival, the country's largest celebration of avian diversity and biodiversity.

The Philippine Bird Festival marks the arrival of migrating shorebirds from the United States and Japan, which coincides with the official dedication of the Ibalang Nature and Wildlife Park, the first protected wetland park in the whole Manila Bay area.

Themed "Shore Birds, Soaring Beyond" ("Magmam Bako, Oo Tawag"), this year's bird festival aims to create public awareness of the Ibalang wetlands, where more than 15,000 individual birds were identified during the Asian Winterbird Census in January.

The wetlands of Puerto Nuevo in Ibalang City attract one of the largest concentrations of migratory shorebirds and waterfowl anywhere in the Philippines, according to the Wild Bird Club of the Philippines (WBCP), organizers of the Philippine Bird Festival.

It is this kind of pain syndrome that many generations of Mexicans experience, both here as a result of both cultural differences and mixed conflict. I like their stories, although

As this research largely has shown, women suffer even less the impact of climate change and natural disasters because of discrimination and poverty. The same is true for

So far, as we attempt to continue our important work in reducing the vulnerability of women in situations of disaster and armed conflict,

We strongly advocate that to pay corporate citizens women's vulnerability in programs to prevent and mitigate these situations. We also commit to undertake continuous advising for women's leadership and involvement in all levels of decision-making on disaster preparedness, climate change mitigation and recovery and building.

ENGLISH'S ADOLPHUS HUTTENLOCHER, JR., says the use of "Viggo" in our judicial system is "to promote the 'national language' and culture."

The task of rebuilding lives, homes and communities devastated by disaster is always falls on the shoulders of women. It can take years before lives can return

Surely, there is no question that the use of "Tapien" in the Indian courts allowed its speakers to understand what was going on in those courts' conclusions. But when the Indian courts actually used in their proceedings the word "Tapien," 12 of course, the people there are distressed – they all speak the tongue of the region that the trouble with that is that Tapien is a language spoken by most of 12,000, it is not acceptable to those living in the various states. Moreover, as a "national language," it is by no means "universal." It is only "national."

Imagine, if you will, the convenience of using Mandarin to represent also using Tagalog in these proceedings. To a great many people there, Tagalog is as Greek as English is to them. If the goal is to make them also understand judicial proceedings, the courts there should also use the language spoken in those areas. Including gral na, ay (That would be very nice, naay?)

Such a recognition of court records in different contexts would be an instrumentalist position: an appeal even if it means that the justices of the Supreme Court in Manila or in Los Angeles and become polyglot themselves. Things are good as they are in different jurisdictions, courts get the services of local translators for the benefit of justice, but the official records are in English, a language used in official communications across the country.

Lakeshore towns may remain flooded till Christmas

TWO MILLION PEOPLE LIVING AROUND Laguna Lake could spend Christmas with their homes partly submerged, after stepped development in flood-prone areas continues to go.

The substandard homes, shantytowns, informal developments, factories and market centers around the lake remain submerged with muddy water following the Sept. 26 floods, that killed nearly 300 people in and around Metro Manila.

The area around the lake has its 1.5 million residents—about half the population of the metropolitan—and 2.3 million of them live in districts that could stay flooded for three months, according to Ricardo Mendiola, head of the Laguna Lake Development Authority (LLDA). Lacking a modern sewerage system, much of the Metro Manila's sewage, trash and liquid pollution goes into the lake. Manila advised people to the Ciudad Nueva to relocate, warning that they be forced to move if they don't go voluntarily.

However, schools, clinics and the families are among the last to leave in the same kind of manner in Tuguegarao City between the lake's northern shore and Metro Manila. Some have chosen to stay.

Rich barely above water

The Gates are sleeping in beds in suburban-style homes that barely keep them above the water, while wooden garages in the upper floor are just high enough to stay above water.

"When it's so deep, it's not safe to go out," said a resident who lives in a house with a swimming pool.

The flood has gotten worse because the rainwater runs down the lake, he said, pushing in a sea of murky-colored, stagnant water and a large amount of trash from the flood-prone areas.

Synthetic rain

The Gates were public and around and above the lake but the surrounding area is not.

Throughout the waterlogged region, there are other noticeable signs of a man-made lake as people try to adapt to life in the water.

Crocks roost on rooftops

In submerged houses, most of the furniture and appliances that can be moved have been taken to the second floor, while others, including expensive fishing rods, must stay on rooftops.

Residents of houses with no upper floors have added wooden planks against the wall to support their beds off the water.

Protesters

Protesters in a small town in Metro Manila, led by a group of people, have been protesting against the National Disaster Coordinating Council (NDCC).

The NDCC, the NDCC, said the construction of a dam in the area would be a disaster of good and bad for the people of the area and the environment in Metro Manila.

NDCC said in Laguna Lake (LAL) is a risk to life, but not to life in the waterway. The flood has been a disaster in the area, but not to life in the waterway.

It would take at least three months for submerged areas in Tuguegarao City and Calicut to be cleared, according to the National Disaster Coordinating Council (NDCC).

Calamities clean up military image

By George A. ...

away the stains in their public images.

"They're getting the public's attention, too. As countries across Southeast Asia clean up and cover the dead following a series of devastating natural disasters, the military engaged in relief work have seized the moment to breathe new life into their images."

From shipping logs to heroes
In the Philippines, the military—accused in recent years of a series of extrajudicial killings—has played a leading role in rescue and relief work following floods caused by Tropical Storm "Ondoy" and Typhoon "Bipang."

Philippine officials told Agence

France-Presse that they were glad their service members—almost 2,000 of whom had been deployed for relief work—were getting the credit.

"Now, they are seeing another side of the Armed Forces of the Philippines, not just involved in combat operations but in humanitarian operations as well," said military spokesman Lt. Col. Ramon Barrios Jr.

"The image of the Armed Forces is gradually improving, not only because but also because of the work they are doing."

They even forge links

An officer with the 71st Engineering Brigade working in Marikina City said his unit, just laid down, received this help in the relief effort but was still working hard.

"We have always been criticized in the media for human rights abuses, but look at my soldiers, they are making a lot of sacrifices," the officer said, pointing to troops working in the high mud to clear debris from a road.

"They have not had lunch yet," he added.

Sub Brachio, head of the 11th Army-based Political and Economic Risk Consultants, said, "In those countries where the military takes an active role, it gives it a positive image."

Changing all that

Barrios said the military in Indonesia, where thousands were killed in Wednesday's 7.6-magnitude earthquake on Sumatra Island.

As in the case of aid in the Philippines and in Vietnam, Indonesian troops have been deployed to work on evacuation and rescue efforts, and medical aid has been sent.

The Indonesian military also plans to send several ships carrying construction equipment for eventual reconstruction efforts.

The military mood seemed of respect for the disaster victims during the visit of late business district before—but emergency aid efforts, such as the one based on the West Sumatra capital Padang, change the equation, however.

"The military in Indonesia is making a higher profile after being hit by a lot of fire at the end of the Jakarta post,"

Barrios said. "It would imagine this would help it restore its credibility as a positive force, as opposed to just a negative force," he added.

For quick results

Aid visit, a political analyst at the University of Indonesia in Jakarta, agreed.

"Of course the impact is positive on the Indonesian military when they assist the disaster victims. People will be even more loyal to the military," Barrios said.

Indonesian officials have deployed tens of thousands of soldiers and police to help victims of Typhoon "Gemma" (Aramat) from Java to Orissa, which struck Vietnam, Cambodia, Laos and Thailand, after a disaster zone through the Philippines.

John-Peter Gibson, a professor of political science at Hong Kong Baptist University, said that since its power restoration, the military was the only institution capable of getting quick results.

"In a lot of countries, and in particular in developing countries, you don't have many other organizations at the ready in disaster situations, the Army plays an essential role and is prepared ahead of time," he said.

In Manila, Deputy Director of the regional disaster relief committee for natural disasters, said: "Thanks to the Army's help, we were able to save thousands of people."

Teachers appeal for replacement of drenched books

NERAN, LAGUNA—AMIT FROM FOOD, MEDICINES AND BLANKETS, teachers at the Neran Jousain High School here are appealing for school supplies that students of storm-stricken families lost in the flood.

On Monday school personnel began clearing the school ground and five classrooms as the flood there still was used by 1,300 high school students as classes were not in session today.

"Although we were advised that schools which are still being used as evacuation centers may postpone their classes, we are to resume tomorrow (Monday) as we are to be redeveloped in the future. It would be hard to hold tomorrow (Monday) classes," said principal Fructus Aguirre.

The three-story high school building has been deluged 150 centimeters since last week following the onslaught of Typhoon Ondoy.

The families were displaced from the schoolhouse during the flood.

When Mayor Nelson Adriano said in a text message that the town had their other evacuation centers.

"They (students) used paper, notebooks and pens. They rarely lost them in the flood, along with other belongings. Of course, their priority thing was to save their lives," said teachers Juan Gila.

Aguirre said they were able to save the books since students left them in school, though some were also damaged and could not be taken anywhere after the flood rose.

"Yes, it would be better if these (books) would be replaced, too," she added.

The schools are to resume the next period, while classes remain on the ground. The families could still not return to their homes near the flood-affected area.

Classes are eventually held from 8 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. and from 1 p.m. to 4:30 p.m.

The classroom will be adjusted to 7 m. to 12 m. for the morning shift and from 1 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. for the afternoon shift.

"We will try not to attend (classes) until the evening," said Aguirre.

The teachers, who are not immune against the second and third flood during typhoon, will still be allowed to sleep on the first floor during the evening.

"Learning will surely be affected (in this way) because of the rain," Gila said.

In flood hit, Mayor Gila said "Ondoy" brought devastation to the province which has been submerged in deep flood due to Typhoon "Ondoy."

In a phone interview, the deputy national secretary who said that the first part of the flood hit was immediately or indirectly due to the heavy floods and landslides.

"Our immediate requirement is to have flood relief boats as we can rescue and evacuate those areas," said Aguirre.

Aguirre said that the rescue operations were hampered by the lack of relief boats. Mayor Gila, however, said that the flood hit the province in 2006.

Preparedness key to minimizing typhoon casualty, disaster response officials say

16 towns in Laguna still flooded

By Vincent Calabrese
Special to the Tribune

BAJOGRANCO CITY—For the deeply religious Capangasinans, prayer was what stilled them from the brunt of typhoon "Pepeng" on Sunday.

But to Philip Labaque, an officer of the Office of Civil Defense (OCD) in Capangasin, the residents should as well attend themselves by sending warnings about the coming typhoon.

What truly created, Labaque said, was how people responded to the government's evacuation program, which was initiated all over the country in the wake of the widespread flooding that hit Metro Manila, Southern Tagalog and Central Luzon only a week ago.

Monseñor Gregorio Uyoga, who lives near the Aglipayan Hills here, said she had a perfect view of the nearby river and immediately recalled images of the Metro Manila floods.

The next people here already knew that a catastrophe that happened after sunset.

Some 15,000 people agreed to be housed in evacuation sites in the province. They live in the mountains of Sta. Rosa, Agaña and Garingay, at the banks of the Capangasin River in Taw, Sta. Trinidad, Pat, Alcala, Calatagan, Tere and Layan.

None of the river dwellers in Bagozino, however, when they were up again.

Lila Yllesima had already been ready in her tent since the first rainfall. She said the family left as soon as strong winds pushed water into their living areas. Neighboring houses did not survive the tide. Nearby, the house of a department of Environment and Natural Resources (DENR) employee was washed by river current, she said.

"When the government said to us go, we went. We know why it is dangerous," she said.

Labaque, who is married to a social worker, said Capangasin residents have learned to adapt because of the frequency that typhoons hit the province.

"It was very important to aware them. To tell them to stay away before the regular attack," he said.

Before, Secretary Gilbert Teodoro Jr. was happy when he received a report that Capangasin suffered "zero casualty" during the onslaught of "Pepeng."

Typhoons arrived at the regional police headquarters in Camp Adnan here on Sunday afternoon as a briefing with Chief Supt. Roberto Duran, regional police director, and Capangasin officials.

"I was happy because we avoided any 'zero casualty' tag," Duran said to the Tribune. The OCD said it lost P21.3-million worth of crops, mainly rice and tubers, were destroyed by the typhoon.

After the briefing, Teodoro visited the Basilio Day Care Center and donated relief goods.

Heading almost directly across the Macapagal Ave. here, which has a row of trees and a police house. When the rain started to pour, the OCD began monitoring plans for additional flood relief work.

This is one of the areas where, he said, flood victims were housed.

made sure it did not create any further residential deaths.

He said the road was recently built. "I used to think that there were always problems with it was prepared," he said.

Labaque said the local government had moved the area to last business, but had made out it was prepared only during business hours.

"Many of the employees live elsewhere because it's bad," he said.

Melvin Cerna, OCD Capangasin valley director, also said quick response program initiated by the local police.

Duran, also chair of the regional disaster coordinating council, had moved local police with their own and police. These personnel were ready to be sent out to deal with it as fast as they were.

"Instead of waiting for agencies like the Department of Public Works and Highways (DPWH) to do their job, the police do it first to make sure roads are cleared for emergency or rescue vehicles to have access to disaster areas," Cerna said.

Cerna is no stranger to disaster. His house in Metro Manila was also hit by Typhoon "Nancy" last week and had to be evacuated here.

Labaque was also not spared. His house lost a roof at the height of "Pepeng." He stayed at his own for half the day, before leaving through the winds to check up on his own daughters.

"Now we live like squatters. My wife is still up by a tree," he said. More reports from Elder Kristian Dizon and Eduardo Dizon, Agaña, Agaña, Agaña, Agaña.

SAN PEDRO, LAGUNA—Sixteen towns and two cities in Laguna, out of the 28 towns and cities in the province, were still flooded as Sunday Visera Tawag, Regional Disaster Coordinating Council Director for Calabarzon (Cebu, Laguna, Batangas, Quezon and Marikina) Region, said.

There are Sta. Rita, Bala, Calabarzon, Los Baños, Bay View, Sta. Rosa, Cebu, Lumban, Pinar, Marikina, Marikina, Marikina, Sta. Rita, Pinar and Pinar towns and the cities of Sta. Rita and Calabarzon.

San Rita and Sta. Rita had been hit by high flood levels.

Tawag said he had advised evacuees not to return to their homes until the floods subsided.

Local flooding 20,000 families or 100,000 persons were still in evacuation centers in the province. In Calabarzon, a Coast Guard personnel assigned in TIR (disaster) in Laguna Island, has been missing since Sept. 25, at the height of Tropical Storm "Nancy."

In a phone interview, POC, Wilbert Franches, Coast Guard operations officer in San Jose, Quezon, said Marikina Island, identified the missing. Coast Guard men at Marikina Island, TIR, and a resident of Calabarzon, Marikina.

One was on board the submarine Chelona Line with other fishermen who tried to search for and rescue the fishermen from TIR who left their homes in Bala on Sept. 25.

On Sept. 26, the person on board the Chelona Line, including 200, said he saw the submarine from the Coast Guard in Bala. The Chelona Line was located in Calabarzon by a rescue mission within five days, whose command had sight of him when he jumped into the water. He was last seen carrying a life jacket. 'Ondoy' brings windfall to Laguna de Bay fishers RESIDENTS take advantage of the swollen Laguna de Bay to fish tilapia and other fish.

THIS EVERYWHERE

It took a good ride to Tropical Storm 'Ondoy,' it could be the time of fish that needed little effort to catch and brought windfall to fishermen around the Laguna lake.

Key Marikina Association of Fish Trainers (Laguna) Fish Trainers' Association (FATLA), said fishermen average catch in the aftermath of Ondoy was 7.5 kg, it used to be 4 kg.

In a statement, the group said this could lead to the overfishing of the lake.

The Laguna Lake Development Authority (LLDA) said water level in the ponded lake was by at least 10 cm.

Ondoy, immediately after, he cut many of Surigao, Alagao and other types of fish from fish cages in the lake.

The increased catch, however, may lead to overfishing of the lake.

who are also coping with the downturn that has led to its sale, Marikina said. Like the tens of thousands of other victims of Ondoy, Marikina said fishermen and their families become dependent on relief goods from the Department of Social Welfare and Development and local government units.

These fish, however, were always not enough, and Marikina said they have to continue fishing.

Key fishermen were forced to sell their catch for just P40 per kg, barely enough to buy food and medicines for their families.

In the statement, Marikina said relief workers to reach Laguna Island, an indigenous community of several fishing villages which was also struck hard by Ondoy.

There is 30 to 40 minutes to boat from Marikina town to Island.

Salvador Flores, Marikina vice chair, said the victims in Talis, seemed to have been beggars. No relief operations have been conducted to relief goods delivered to the island, he said.

"What we have here are huge billboards presenting false information products," he said.

He said that in two fisherman villages in Marikina—Gumay and Tagay—of over 1,000 residents were lost to by Ondoy.

Flores said at least 15,000 families live around the Laguna Lake.

During Ondoy into their own lands, Marikina and a parent group, Edoang Magbubangay, Philippine (EMF), formed Ondoy Relief Marikina, a network of relief organizations, including relief work in takeable communities. Deputy 1 Marikina, Angeline Sarmiento, said.

Ex-solon asks Malacañang help for justice to slain priest-brother in Samar MANILA CITY—THE REMAINS of a priest who was killed in the Marikina tragedy nearly a month ago, seeking the help of President Benigno Aquino III to seek justice for his brother.

Former Rep. Wilson Lacerda, eldest brother of the slain priest Fr. Cecilio Lacerda, said his brother's body was recovered separately by the Philippine National Police and the National Bureau of Investigation but until now there had been no results yet.

"The family is appealing to President Benigno Aquino to please order the proper investigation of this tragedy to find out the truth about the incident," he said.

"It is now the 27th day since the death of Fr. Cecilio Lacerda was announced but up to now, the family is waiting for justice to be given to Father Cecilio."

He said that he and his family are waiting for justice to be given to Father Cecilio. He said that he and his family are waiting for justice to be given to Father Cecilio.

One of the priest's colleagues, Father Maria, was wounded while his predecessor was killed in the Marikina tragedy.

The Catholic Bishops Conference of the Philippines, National Association of Bishops, and the National Association of Bishops, said they are waiting for justice to be given to Father Cecilio.

According to his brother, he received a call from the victim on the day of his death, telling him that his brother was killed in the Marikina tragedy.

5 soldiers hurt in ambush

PUBLIC ADVISORY ON VEHICLES DAMAGED BY FLOODS

Chamber of Automotive Manufacturers of the Philippines, Inc. (CAMPI)

The automotive industry expresses its profound concern and sympathy to all who suffered from the devastation brought about by typhoon Ondoy. In these trying times, the auto industry is doing its best and will extend whatever assistance we can give within our means to those whose vehicles were damaged by floods. We are stepping up our efforts to expedite the repair and restoration of their vehicles even though we continue to experience a deluge of vehicles in need of immediate service.

INITIAL STEPS TO TAKE :

In case the vehicle cannot be brought immediately to an authorized service shop (due to limited number of available tow trucks, dealerships overwhelmed with the sheer volume of vehicles brought to them, and limitation in the holding area), the following steps should be taken to minimize further damage to the vehicle:

1. DO NOT attempt to start the engine.
2. Disconnect the battery from the terminals.
3. Check the engine oil level through the dipstick to determine presence of water in the oil (a high oil level might mean water presence in the engine).
4. For insurance claim purposes, take pictures of the vehicle before cleaning it.
5. Clean the interior and exterior of the vehicle to include removing as much water as possible from the interior.

After these initial steps, contact the nearest authorized dealership or firm the company's facilities to check if the vehicle can be accommodated for service and repair and if possible make arrangements for towing services.

Vehicle owners are advised to deal with your brand's authorized dealership only to avoid late or counterfeit replacement parts which will further damage your vehicle. We advise the use of genuine replacement parts only.

RELIEF MEASURES BEING UNDERTAKEN BY CAMPI MEMBERS :

- (1) Provide discounts or lower prices for affected parts and accessories.
- (2) Extend working hours of dealerships, which may include weekends, to accommodate vehicles for repair and service.
- (3) Fast-track ordering and delivery of the needed replacement parts.
- (4) Make available the dealership/service shops in other areas outside Metro Manila to assist in easing the backlog of vehicles in the event that it cannot be accommodated by Metro Manila dealerships.
- (5) Devise systems to ensure order in attending to the needs of the customers including the proper scheduling of towing services.

ILOILO CITY—RESENTS OF IWARAS town in Davao on Friday marked the third anniversary of a river tragedy that killed 41 people.

But they said the governor's tragedy was the government's failure to build a bridge across the river, which those who don't liked to cross.

At least 500 people, mostly from 13
 isolated villages and relatives of the victims, and towns officials attended Mass celebratpromise to build a bridge over a river after the tragedy three years ago. Only a hanging bridge is being built.

Ignacio Mayor
 Justice Francisco said in a phone interview on Friday that a hanging bridge would be completed in two months.

The 21-million bridge will be used by people when an overflow bridge that is currently being used by vehicles and community becomes impassable due to floods in a river spill.

The overflow bridge, built in 1980, has cracks underneath but no side railings.

 Water usually overflows during heavy and continuous rain or when the rains are stopped by debris.

Francisco said a new bridge would cost at least P50-million, which the town doesn't have.

Ignacio has an annual share in national revenue of P30-million.

2 hydropower plants eyed

By Phoebe P. Burgos Jr.
 Inquirer-Viggo

ILOILO CITY—A CHINESE FIRM WANTS to build up two hydropower plants in Iloilo town in Davao that can replace its power supply from unreliable sources of energy.

Century Peak Energy is planning to build a 6-megawatt plant at the Iyiguan River and another 6-mw power plant at the Viggo River, Ignacio Mayor Mayor Francisco told the Inquirer in a telephone interview on Sunday.

The company, he said, was securing permits and other requirements from the Department of Energy and was expected to start the project within the year.

Ignacio is a third-class municipality situated 20 kilometers south of the city with a population of about 36,000. It is a popular vacation destination because of its scenic, hills and river system.

Francisco said the power projects would boost the town's economy and help lessen development, especially in infrastructure.

"The project proposals have secured so that they would help build roads and bridges especially those leading to the project area," he said.

He said the hydroelectric projects would also provide employment for residents and investors for the municipality.

There are among those being pushed by management organizations to address the growing power supply deficit in the Viggo, especially on Davao Island.

Environmental and Church groups have been opposing the construction of coal-fired plants which they blame for contributing to global warming and climate change.

They are, instead, pushing for the tapping of renewable sources of energy such as wind, solar, hydro and biomass. They have pushed for the Mayor's Viggo has an abundant potential source of renewable energy that could generate at least 328 megawatts.

Educators reveal Pinoys still 'health-illiterate'

RESIDENTS of Barangay (neighborhood) San Pedro Laguna walk through maps to learn about dengue, malaria and other common diseases.

BAJO CITY—FILIPINOS ARE 'HEALTH-ILLITERATE' and this condition must change now that diseases are resurging across the island, healthists, according to experts who gathered for the national literacy conference at Teachers' Camp here on Wednesday.

Senior Health Secretary Jesse M. Velasco, a professor of the University of the Philippines College of Medicine, said poor knowledge about health and medicine was common among the poor, which increases their vulnerability to diseases.

Teachers' health literacy is an essential to access preventive health services. A person's inability to read a medication prescription is an inadequate capacity to obtain advice regarding health risks could lead to more ailments, he said.

But in times of calamities, an inability to understand medical risks could be fatal, he added.

This provided teachers with graphs indicating how poverty correlates with health illiteracy and had constructive education. He said the National Statistics Office

(NSO) polled the educational background of Filipinos against the access of families of the government's immunization programs, its anti-malaria and family planning efforts, and its campaigns to reduce HIV transmission (see story on page 2).

The data showed that Filipinos with little or no primary education did not participate in these programs, he said.

He said a system of graphics (posters) giving health information, detected earlier, including a Grade 5 textbook with more than 500 errors.

He said the Department of Education announced plans to correct the errors.

One textbook regarding to Grade 3 also said that "all snakes bite on poisonous," though only three kinds of Philippine snakes are actually poisonous.

"We are watching out kids in the school of snakes," he said.

He said he distributed last week a new textbook dedicated to health information and was being republished by Education Secretary Armin Llapo.

He said many health illiterate Filipinos belong to regions that are usually prone to calamities and are poor: the Autonomous Region in Muslim Mindanao, Zamboanga peninsula, Sulu, Basilan, Misamis, Socodrogas and Cebu.

He asked teachers to help "simplify the language" of medicines and health to communicate its importance to communities through calamities.

With management, experts stressed that health should remain the government's highest priority in the wake of a disaster during a Tuesday focus on disaster change that was reported here by the Department of Health.

Although rescue efforts are primary activities after disasters, sustaining the delivery of health services must remain at the top of government priorities because this is an on-stand-along the immediate consequences of disasters, said Olivia Lopez, Co-ordinator Director of the Office of Civil Defense. — Harold Calalang, People's North-View Column

Insurance pushed for properties of local gov'ts

BAJO CITY—THE NATIONAL EDUCATION Coordinating Council (NCEC) is pushing for insurance covering local government properties, as well as a Senate bill that will allow local governments to use their calamity funds to insure for disasters.

Olivia Lopez, Co-ordinator Director of the Office of Civil Defense, said these measures would give local government properties a comprehensive level of protection, earthquake, fire and flood.

Lopez spoke at a disaster change forum organized on Tuesday by the Department of Health (DOH).

The said local governments help insurance for properties are damaged by calamities to insure private insurance being partly offered coverage for "acts of God."

She said the National Government Insurance Agency (NGIA) had offered to provide this service, but the state might require legislation.

Lopez said the NCEC has also pushing for a Senate measure, sponsored by Sen. Manuel Villar Jr., that would have local governments (from municipalities) into the use of their calamity funds.

She said the NCEC members had drafted bills aimed at ensuring protected risks, and asked local governments to use calamity funds to pay for potential disaster-related losses.

More portalets needed in evacuation centers

By Margaret Reynolds

HEALTH SECRETARY FRANCISCO DUQUE II yesterday sounded off the need for sanitation and hygiene supplies in evacuation centers to prevent the spread of various diseases like flu and diarrhea.

But most paratubercle seems required to address the nutritional needs of Chlamydia Chlamydia.

"We used almost 250 men [paratroops]," he said in a telephone interview.

Chapter also called for discussion of molluscs such as murex, brachid, trochophore, nautilus and dischidoceras alabastrum.

This developed as the WHO Health Organization (WHO) and the Department of Health (DOH) urged members with interest in vaccination activities to produce breastfeeding due to the question, the safety of the water supply.

The WHO representative in the Philippines expressed his confidence that the Philippines would be able to overcome the economic crisis.

The DRI on Sunday said tonight will provide infants with the most complete nutrition.

Chaput said it was crucial for the government to establish new distress associated with low-level

"The use of prepared personnel formulas in a situation where there is a lack of information and assistance will only increase the vulnerability of systems to intrusions," he said.

90% of Marikina private schools ruined, says exec

By Philip C. Tolosa

AS CLASSES RESUME IN MOST PUBLIC SCHOOLS in Metro Manila today, private school owners in Marikina City doubt whether they can reopen even by next week due to the devastation wrought by Tropical Storm "Ondoy."

According to Eusebio E. Santiago, head of the Marikina Private School Administrators Association, 90 percent of their member schools were damaged with many in need of "serious restoration and not just repairs."

He added that a lot of parents have also called school officials to report that their children have all their belongings, books and other school materials.

"There are even saying that they might not be able to send their children back to school for the remainder of the school year because they lost everything," said. This was really of belated proportions," Santiago said in an interview.

He said his own school, St. Cecilia's Catholic Subdivision School, is severely with a three-foot high pile of debris, garbage and mud reaching its front gate.

"This is garbage—mud, debris, broken items, debris—just on the roadside but on the road itself. We can't open the school gate because of this. The fact of classes will have to depend on when the government can clear the area,"

Number coding back in effect, says MMDA

By Allison W. Lopez

THE NUMBER CODING scheme for vehicles in Metro Manila will resume today with the reopening of classes, the Metropolitan Manila Development Authority (MMDA) announced yesterday.

MMDA Chief Superintendent, who lifted the implementation of the vehicle rotation program for a week, is sure the way he said and substitution efforts, said the situation has controlled in some cities following the destruction caused by Typhoon "Ondoy."

The MMDA is now conducting clearing operations, focusing mostly on Marikina City, one of the areas which took the brunt of Ondoy's fury. Meanwhile, said they have installed a command center behind the Marikina City Hall to facilitate and speed up the deployment of workers and heavy equipment.

The agency has dispatched 500 workers from the Roadway Clearing Operations Group, Sub-city Clearing Operations Group and MMDA Police to clear the city's roads of debris and mud.

At least 70 pushcarts, trucks, tow trucks, dump trucks, ambulances and other vehicles owned by the MMDA or borrowed from private companies are now based at the command center.

Meanwhile, they were preparing the Marikina and Marikina

Bank raises economic growth forecast for RP

1.5 percent for this year, 3.3 percent for 2010

By Michele V. Rana

DISPOSABLE INCOME: CHARTERED BANK raised its economic growth forecast for the Philippines for this year and 2010, citing the domestic economy was benefiting from the expanded use of remittances and the stimulus effect of the government.

For this year, BCI raised its estimate of the Philippine economy to grow by 1.5 percent, up from its original forecast of 0.7 percent.

For 2010, the international bank now forecasts growth of 3.3 percent, from its original projection of 2.7 percent.

These projections are within the government's growth targets of between 0.8 and 1.8 percent for this year and between 2.6 and 3.6 percent for next year.

"We have raised our forecast for the Philippines GDP (gross domestic product) growth due to stronger than expected domestic Filipino workers' remittances and the continued plan for strong fixed pump-priming out year," BCI said in a paper on its outlook on the Philippines.

The bank expects remittances to grow by 6 percent this year from $15.4 billion last year.

It said it was improving estimates to rise partly because the stimulus in the United States, where many Filipino workers worked, was steadily easing.

Remittances from Filipino working offshore were under stood to correct this year in spite of layoffs in economies of other countries. However, now it is not by Filipino workers returned to their jobs in the many demand for manpower in other market markets.

The foreign trade of the Philippines in the first seven months of the year hit $9.7 billion, up 3.1 percent from one year level.

BCI Economic Analysis Division A said the latest data proved that its own forecast of a rise in growth for the full year was too conservative. The BCI is raising its projection and will likely increase its new target this month.

To counter the adverse impact of the downturn in global demand for Philippine exports in the country's overall economic outlook, the government allowed a much higher deficit spending this year.

It led to a budget deficit of P20.4 billion in the first seven months of the year. The actual deficit of only P16.1 billion last year.

The Department of Finance said the government would review its budget deficit ceiling for next year and would likely set it at P21 billion.

BCI said the Philippines' GDP growth for the economy's stimulus would help attract foreign investments. As a consequence, it said, the peso would gain strength against currencies of trading partners.

BPI Family expects to hit '09 growth goal

By Dora C. Domingo

BY DECEMBER, THE GROUP'S biggest savings bank, BPI, was on track to meeting its 14.11 percent growth target for 2009, ending the year with a strong performance.

BPI Family president Alfonso B. Rodriguez said the growth in customer lending would be a key factor in the bank's ability to meet its goal.

"We're not only on track, but also exceeding our target," he said.

He said the bank's growth in deposits and loans was a key factor in its success.

The bank's deposit growth was 14.11 percent, he said.

Gov't earns P14.4B from natural gas sale

By Rocco K. Domingo

THE NATIONAL TREASURY last week added to a P14.4-billion windfall from the sale of natural gas from the Malampaya field off Marikina, Batangas.

Finance Secretary Benjamin S. Romulo said the unexpected revenue boosted the gas purchased for National Power Corp. (Napco) for its use.

It was transferred to the Department of Energy (DOE) and was later sold to Philippine National Oil Co. (PNOC).

"While this is seen to ease the pressure of a hefty liability of the P20-billion budget deficit, it is not a long-term solution," he said.

He added that the sale of the gas at P14.4 billion was a "one-time" revenue, not a "recurring" one.

He said the government had to sell the gas at a low price to meet its budget for 2009.

Water firms defer rate hikes, disconnections

Move meant to ease financial burden on consumers, firms affected by 'Ondoy'

By Rita T. Ochoaides

WATER UTILITIES, IN COOPERATION with the Metropolitan Waterworks and Sewerage Service (MWSS), are postponing future temporary differential rate increases (DRIAs) and financial disconnections for the entire month of October, as part of their assistance to flood-hit consumers in Metro Manila.

In the same time, Manila Water Company Inc. and Maytagled Water Services, Inc. are also implementing a disconnection moratorium in affected areas in their respective concession areas, giving customers with pending water bills more time to settle their accounts.

"The approved tariff adjustment for 2006 as the foreign currency differential adjustment component of the rate bill of Manila Water customers due in the approximate of the August year-end (FY2006) payment... had in past years been set on Jan. 2, 2006 to Jan. 1, 2007," Manila Water said in a dispatch to Philippine stock exchange.

Manila Water's legal and corporate governance officers, Garfiled Geronimo and the MWSS, said the decision to postpone would help ease the financial burden on the customers affected by Tropical Storm "Ondoy".

Meanwhile, for its part, said it is deferring the implementation of a fourth quarter (FY2006) adjustment for 2006 year to help relieve the financial pressure on consumers. The FY2006 adjustment will apply to all Maytagled customers and Maytagled Orange, head of corporate affairs and public relations, in a text message.

"The reason that Maytagled is not facing the disconnection moratorium is a specific moratorium for Maytagled."

"We will consider as much leniency as these customers who were directly displaced and damaged by Tropical Storm Ondoy," Orange said.

FY2006 adjustment (Manila Water) and in a phase increase that the disconnection moratorium is mainly for households, although businesses that suffered major property damage may get to settle with the utility with the same leniency if they need more time to pay their bills.

"Business from households [for a disconnection moratorium] will be on a contra rate basis," Adriano said.

Meanwhile, the delay in rate increases is helpful to those who may experience further typhoon devastations. "Metro Manila is not expected to be directly hit by Typhoon "Pepeng", but if there's more devastation in Metro Manila, we may extend the moratorium. It depends on the situation," Adriano said.

Last month, Maytagled, the water utility of Metro Manila's Government Corp. (MGC) and DMCI Holdings Inc., said it would adjust its water bill from October to December as the price witnessed against foreign currencies.

Maytagled's FY2006 adjustment was expected to result in an increase of 50.27 per cent more. For Maytagled customers consuming an average of 18 cubic meters a month, the adjustment will result in an increase of P18.33 in their monthly water bill.

A week earlier, Appleland Manila Water said it would adjust the consumption of its water users for the fourth quarter starting Oct. 2. This amounts to an increase of 59.99 per cent more and households using 12 cubic meters, while those consuming below 12 cubic meters will be exempted from the increase.

The PSCA—a "year change" mechanism for the foreign currency rates or gaps of both firms—is reviewed quarterly.

Firms shun expansion amid Asia's recovery

By Miguel L. Ho

DESPITE PROJECTIONS OF AN economic recovery over the next year, companies in Asia are opting to shelve expansion plans and are instead just focusing on internal restructuring and reorganization.

According to a recent survey by the Asian Development Bank (ADB), 50 percent of companies in the region are planning to shelve expansion plans for the next 12 months, while only 24 percent said they would go on a long-term plan with available funds.

The ADB-sponsored study showed that while companies in the region are planning to shelve expansion plans, they are also planning to increase their investment in Asia. Only 24 percent were planning to increase their investment in Asia, while 30 percent were planning to increase their investment in Asia.

The focus of the majority of Asian firms, the study revealed, had to do with internal issues.

Chen is full, at 47 percent, of the companies polled said they would increase the frequency of internal restructuring, plan more expansion on financial restructuring and reorganization, and strengthen their market intelligence gathering tools and processes.

During these uncertain times, the company's growth would be on the lower end, according to 75 percent of the respondents.

Most of the respondents believed that the current changes they were making now would not only allow them to weather the economic downturn, but also make it significant gain when the crisis passes.

Among 75 percent, a rise in revenues, 50 percent predicted a significant increase in operational efficiency, and 30 percent expected a significant increase in their market intelligence gathering tools and processes.

Regarding internal initiatives, 50 percent believed that management capabilities, according to 25 percent of those polled, while 30 percent of those polled said they would have a significant impact on their company's performance.

The study's director, Henry Wang said, however, that companies needed to look beyond just making short-term adjustments and making the long-term plan.

New fabulous works of Lydia Velasco

By-Ed Hayes
Cincinnati, Ohio

FABULOSAF SAYS OSCAR WILDE. "One should either be a work of art, or wear a work of art."

As an intermediary word, fabulous relates to its roots of fabra, fabile, from the Latin, fabri is, meaning "story or play," such as "a legendary story of supernatural happenings" or "a narration intended to induce a useful truth." Thus, fabulous resembles a fabla, especially in its incredible, marvelous, or exaggerated quality.

This quality is what engages Lynda Wilson in her latest works, which are not a departure from her signature women paintings, but are rather a visual journey into the rich polyphonic world of legend, folklore and fantasy. Female sexuality, which has always underpinned the art of Wilson, is given free play here in the assurance of titanic and the embrace of desire.

Wilder's fascination for the exotic fabrications of fiction turned when, during a 1936 New York, she beheld the splendor of the works of Gustav Klimt (1862-1918). A leading exponent of a movement known as Art Nouveau, Klimt brought his passion for decoration to its zenith with his depictions all women in stable partnerships will be aware of their own symptoms.

At Soenen influenced the decorative art: furniture (Hector Guimard), lamps (Louis Comfort Tiffany), jewelry (René Lalique), book design, illustration (Oswald Reisch), even architecture, as witness the structures of the Belgian artist Hector Horta and Josef Josefowitz at the Antwerp (1895) to his Sagrada Família in Cathedral.

In her recent examination of women, Sillars described the depressive outpouring of Klor, which resulted in a pageant of lustre and space animated by a sense of loss. The overruling compulsion is to conjure a dimension of femininity as an absence of culture and consciousness.

Malawi's women are engaged to a future, caught in protest. But suggest their emotional or psychological state or some physical activity. The hailstorm characterizes an un-expedient, strenuous, of force, limits and creativity is mythical power, their flesh and muscledness leashed with animal headwork, and hurried to a glowing future show, resulting in more University lecture material.

Indeed, her past solo-skillful-tono glory is famous. But should her women's social desires and embracing sexuality: "Must be digna," "Love Romantic," "Grymna," "That is not a habit," Mikasa's women disrupt the Diaphanous litany that caresses the light of her skin, the Fabulousness of her breasts, and the stretched elongation of her torso. There is an instrument of attraction, which the song wields with confident measure, aware that a woman's allure is the ultimate achievement of her gender.

In her "Futuristic" paintings, Wilton includes the commanding decorative patterns of Kline. Interestingly, Milner's designs accommodate the spectrum of decorative forms now found in Japanese, American Chinoiserie, chinoiserie, and exoticism, infusing them with a distinct Philippine look, imbued with the deeply broad palette of carabao, native oranges and yellows, gold and maroon, but accented and primed to achieve a new look.

PLDT-SMART Foundation's Gabay Guro Salutes Our Unsung Heroes

What is the one thing that's common among all the doctors, lawyers, architects, nurses, engineers, and accountants of the world? In every milestone, they were tirelessly taught, shaped and inspired by the very pillars and champions of education, the ones that helped mold them to what and where they are today: our teachers. And to celebrate their lifelong dedication to always bring out the best in us, what's a day to remember and honor them?

The Gabay Guro Program supports and uplifts the professional development of our teachers through scholarship grants, English proficiency and computer literacy trainings. Through this endeavor, PLDT's thrust goes side by side with the Department of Education's commitment to improve the quality of education in the country. It is PLDT's way of giving back and giving more to those who give, unconditionally.

For its 2nd year, the PLDT-SMART Foundation with the PLDT Managers' Club (supported PLDT MD) and its supportive partners, once again, commemorate teachers' unflinching dedication and hard work through the Gabay Guro Teachers' Day on October 10, 3 days before O'Day. selected teachers (partners from different provinces) will be flown in to Manila to enjoy special treatment and attend various special PLDT-conducted seminars and activities.

On that special day, PLDT will be changing lives, of the ones who have changed ours.

If interested to support this noble cause, drop by any PLDT-SMART Foundation Gabay Guro booth or visit www.gabayguro.com.

Health Care Work - Environment

IF YOU'VE GONE THROUGH THE school system for at least 25 years and you're no fond memories of a teacher-student crush—you're better off. You should ask for your money back.

I happen to have had excellent teachers to whom I'm grateful but for now let me go for the gold and acknowledge as the LP journalism professor who stands closest to Westgaard, H. H., and Knauth, R. A. 1975. Journal of Human Ergology 4: 179-184.

For one Vermont Whiting class back in the day when the College of Mass Communications was still an institute, English would diligently bring to sample stories from different newspapers and magazines for us to discuss. paragraph by paragraph, word by word, much like they do in a writing workshop.

I hardly participated in the activities. The being calm, I back advantage of the lack of distractions and goals during class—algorithms, paperbacks and other print material that were an expected reading yet seemed so essential to me in the breath of life. But despite my attention deficit, I managed to learn how to stir up a good flame story from ashes.

Unlike a writing workshop, we didn't critique one another's work.

Jollibee gives back to teachers

For students, the school is their second home, and teachers form part of their second family. Week in and week out, teachers work hard not just to teach them with the basics but to impart values that they will carry with them as they grow up and face life's greater challenges. Through these selfless and dedicated men and women, the skills, talents and characters of our children are honed and developed - so they can someday realize their dreams of being the best that they can be.

Truly, teachers are our modern-day heroes in their own noble way. Even now as grown-ups, we remain grateful to those teachers and educators for being a part of who we are today.

In support to the Teachers Month Campaign, the Jollibee's turn to give back to our dear teachers. From October 5 to 9, Jollibee is offering special discounts exclusively for all teachers nationwide. Outstanding teacher awardees pay tribute to their own mentors

AFTER CROSSING THE BRIDGE from K-12 to college, these award-winning teachers pay tribute to the mentors who helped them get to where they are today.

It's a tradition at the University of the Philippines (UP) that outstanding teachers are honored with the Outstanding Teacher Award. This year, the award was given to 10 teachers from various UP campuses.

These teachers are not just educators; they are mentors. They have inspired and guided many students, and their impact is felt even today.

For some, the award is a recognition of their years of service. For others, it's a tribute to the mentors who have shaped their careers. The award is given to teachers who have made a significant impact on their students' lives.

Waving a magic wand

Remembering Liza "Lulu" Alcantara as my beloved English teacher brings back a flood of memories. It was in her classroom that I first learned to love reading. She was a teacher who made learning fun and engaging. Her lessons were always interesting and informative. I will always remember her as a great teacher and a wonderful person.
